RE: IV-D Case No. 21-916020-00-7A, FSR Account No. 10988509

Dear Ms. Brunner:

On October 10, 2008, I met with you and discussed the voluntary change in custody that occurred from January 2005 through January 1, 2007. Therefore, I know you are aware of my ongoing dispute with the El Paso County Child Support Enforcement Unit (CSEU) and its legal representatives for claims to back child support for the 30 of 36 months I had custody of my son.

On January 13, 2010, former District Magistrate John Paul Lyle issued orders to CSEU's legal representative, Christina Eigel, to recalculate arrears and retroactively modify child support to reflect this voluntary change in custody. However, his term as magistrate ended prior to the signing of the final order.

Please be advised the attached final order was back-dated to January 13, 2010 and entered March 26, 2010 when someone stamped the order using the incoming magistrate's name stamp. I shall presume District Magistrate Candea-Ramsey approved the new order by stamping it, having also received the attached two orders bearing her personal signature at the same time by U.S. mail.

I am certain that you, as a paralegal and expert in child support modification, the Colorado Child Support Guidelines and worksheets, could not have mistakenly overlooked the fact the correct parenting information was not used to recalculate arrears. I also believe that your attendance at child support modification hearings furthers your expertise in this area of my concern.

This is to inform you CSEU contacted American National Bank and fraudulently issued the attached bank levy notice using the authority granted to CSEU by the Colorado Division of Child Support Enforcement by stating the order was entered on January 13, 2010, the effective date assigned by CSEU attorney Christina Eigel to the final order using the nunc pro tunc rule.

This is also to inform you that on March 29, 2010, the CDHS CSE portal for the Family Support Registry provided fraudulent information by reporting the following under Case Status Recent Case Events:
“ 01/13/2010 Motion to Reduce Current Support Motion Granted.”

Sincerely,
